

SAN RAFAEL

JOB AWARENESS FOR STUDENTS

Eighth-graders shadow workers as part of career program

Nearly 200 eighth-grade students at Davidson Middle School in San Rafael had the opportunity to shadow workers at their jobs this week at 24 different job sites throughout the Bay Area as part of the Davidson Early College and Career Awareness Program. On Friday, some students visited the Kerner Clinic in San Rafael to learn about medicine; Paul Heyneman Auto to learn about cars; the San Rafael Fire Department to meet with firefighters; and Laurel Dell Elementary School in San Rafael to learn about teaching. During the week students also shadowed workers in government, music, the food industry and digital design. A career fair will be held May 31 at the school for seventh-grade students. Clockwise from top: Linsy Rodas checks Dr. Alda Calvillo's ear at the Marin Community Clinics on Friday. Calvillo talks with Ashley Aleman, Tia Pingkun, Adriana Viniegra and Jonathan Blanco. Blanco has his blood pressure checked.
